SENATOR CRANE IS NEW TAFT MANAGER.

"Elder Statesman" Succeeds Hitchcock as Republican Leader.

National Chairman's Methods Prove Too Secretive and Man of Broader Views Is Wanted to Satisfy Demands of Party—Change Made Without Discard and Things Will Run Under New Impetus.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CINCINNATI (O.) Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] While the Republican national organization will to outward appearance remain as at present constituted, it was reorganized today and the "Elder Statesman" will run the machine. Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts left Cincinnati tonight for Chicago to shake up that office.

Senator Crane is the statesman who was Roosevelt's first choice for chairman, but who declined to accept because he did not fancy the hard work of a campaign. He has now responded to an appeal for help from Mr. Roosevelt, with the acquiescence of Mr. Taft.

HITCHCOCK TOO DISCREET. The two objections to Mr. Hitchcock by the leaders of the Republican party are that he is so secretive in his methods that he wishes to do everything himself that no one may know what he is doing, and that this trait has made him almost inaccessible to the most needed men of the party, and unsatisfactory in his communications when he is reached. It was admitted today that Mr. Hitchcock is a success as a card index expert, but the statement was made that a broader view than Mr. Hitchcock is capable of is needed at once. For that reason the executive and advisory committees will manage the campaign from this time, though the orders will still be signed by Hitchcock as a matter of form. It is desired to avoid public evidence of discord which would result if Hitchcock were removed. Senator Crane will be the actual chairman.

FOURAKER ENTIRELY OUT. The Foraker incident has resulted not only in his elimination from the program of the National League of Republican Clubs, next Tuesday night, but from the campaign as a whole. The senator gave a message to Senator Crane to be delivered to the National Committee canceling all his speaking engagements, including that at Taft Camp, N. Y., and sent word to Chairman Henry Williams of the Ohio Executive Committee that he will not be able to keep any of the engagements made for him in Ohio.

HAVING severed his relations with both the National Committee and the Republican Committee for Ohio, Senator Foraker announced tonight through his friends that he will begin a series of speeches in Ohio that will carry him into almost every county in the State.

POLITICAL EPITAPH. A close friend of Senator Foraker said tonight: "The Senator has not yet realized what this revelation means to his political future. He has had some opposition in his career and has had a

TWO-LEGGED MULE. OSTRICH FOOLS CHICKEN WISE. TWO MEN PURSUE RACER WITH DISASTROUS RESULT.

Negro Who Thought He Could Catch Anything in the Poultry Line Kicked in the Face by Big Bird and White Man Also Knocked Down and Injured.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Just because they thought an ostrich was a timid, harmless sort of creature, two men, one white and one black, were badly hurt at Mineola, L. I., today. Each of the men tried to catch and hold an ostrich at the Mineola fair grounds. The negro was kicked in the face and landed on his back, while the white man was kicked in the chest, knocked down and had his clothes half torn off him.

The ostrich that did all the damage is named Fleet Wing. He was brought to Mineola to race on the fair grounds this week. The big bird in some manner escaped from its crate and started off on a run. A big negro looked at the ostrich and said: "I reckon there ain't no chicken ever were raised that I couldn't catch."

The negro wrapped his arms about one of Fleet Wing's legs and in a second was lifted in the air and landed about twenty feet from the ostrich. He tried to get the bird's feet and got an uppercut on his diaphragm. Finally the ostrich was roped and recaptured. "That ain't no chicken," said the negro, "that there's a two-legged mule."

WORK FOR HUNDRED THOUSAND. Iron and Steel Plants of the Country Are to Resume Operations by October 1.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Orders have been issued at the large iron and steel plants of the country to prepare for resumption by October 1. A plan has been evolved at a series of meetings in New York to get the jobbers and dealers to stock up and not wait until after election. As a result, fully 100,000 idle iron and steel workers in the country will find immediate employment. Jobbers have been offered a long line of credit by manufacturers and have been guaranteed against any reduction in prices later.

NEW ENGLANDERS WORRIED. Have Had No Rain for Over Three Weeks, and Drouth Is Feared.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Anxiety is filling the heart of the New England farmer, for a drouth which is pronounced to be one of the severest in many years has spread itself over the New England States, causing suffering to people, cattle and crops throughout the country.

FIRE WIPES OUT WISCONSIN TOWNS.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) RHINELANDER (Wis.) Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fires swept today wiped out the prosperous lumber towns of Gagen and Woodboro, and 2,000 persons in each town are homeless. Grave fears are entertained for the safety of hundreds of refugees who fled from Woodboro. It being feared they have been hemmed in by the fire which is sweeping the country adjacent.

MAN AND WIFE STAND OFF SHERIFF'S POSSE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) WEST PLAINS (Mo.) Sept. 20.—John Roberts and his wife today resisted a Sheriff's posse in a desperate battle near Preston, one mile south of the Missouri-Arkansas line, when the officers attempted to arrest Roberts for the killing of B. A. Kessinger, a neighbor, last night. As a result one woman is dead and two men and Sheriff Mooney of Baxter county, Ark., are mortally wounded. Roberts and two members of the posse, Max T. Lowery and his son, are all seriously hurt. Roberts may not survive.

The murder of Kessinger was cold-blooded. Roberts went to the house late in the evening, and called his victim to the door. When Kessinger appeared Roberts fired deliberately and killed him.

DR. HALE INDIGNANT. Noted Brooklyn Educator Came Steerage, and Doesn't Like Way He Was Treated.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. William Henry Hale, A. M., Ph. D., of Brooklyn, who was forced, because of lack of accommodations, to return from abroad in the steerage of the Mauretania, but who declined to be landed by Ellis Island and rushed down the gang plank when the big Cunard liner reached her pier on Saturday, has a grievance which he says, he will take to President Roosevelt.

Dr. Hale was homeward bound from Dublin, where he had attended the annual convention of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Unable to obtain cabin passage on the Mauretania and being in a hurry to get home, he patronized the steerage. Dr. O. E. Olsen of Grimsby, England, a delegate to a scientific congress to be held here, accompanied him.

SWEEPING RUSSIA.

Royal Family Is in Danger.

One of Guards on the Czar's Yacht Is Stricken by Disease.

Scores Dying Daily and the Number of Cases Is Increasing.

Dead Lie Unburied in Heaps and City Is Hopelessly Unsanitary.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Asiatic cholera, which is sweeping Russia, killing scores daily, has turned this city into a place of death, and it is now reported, threatens the imperial family. According to advices from Finland, near where the royal party is cruising, they have been exposed to the disease, and the royal guards having been stricken.

St. Petersburg is in an appalling condition, and the government has threatened to apply martial law. The cholera has already exceeded in severity and number of cases the epidemic of 1892.

The dead lie unburied in heaps around the overcrowded pest houses. Disinfectants are nearly exhausted in the city, and the panic-stricken people have turned to fiery vodka in hopes of warding off the disease.

VODKA ADDS TO HORROR. It is a common sight in the streets for a crowd of drunken revelers to follow the "death wagon," making its ghastly rounds. Their beer often is mixed with vodka, for the dying.

To stop these shocking scenes and because the liquor was proven to be an aid to the disease, Gen. Drabinsky, prefect of St. Petersburg, has prohibited the sale of liquor throughout the city. This includes the government vodka shops.

Hospital space has been practically exhausted, and the authorities of the city today, through the administrative council, voted an appropriation of $250,000 to get additional hospital facilities. This was done after the government threatened martial law.

Practically nothing has been done up to the present to put the city's market in a sanitary condition; they are places of indescribable filth, the atmosphere reeking with foul odors.

ALARM IS GENERAL. Advice from all parts of Russia show that the alarm is very general, and that there is good reason for it. As Moscow quarantine has been established at all railway stations, and passengers placed under the strictest surveillance. Up to the present, Moscow has been immune.

Twenty-five cases and six deaths were reported on Saturday from Odessa. The German authorities have taken precautions to prevent the disease from crossing the frontier. Austria has done the same thing; also Sweden and other near-by countries have declared a quarantine, and France is ready to meet any exigencies that may arise.

DISEASE SPREADS THROUGH MANILA. (ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) MANILA, Sept. 21.—Fifty-eight new cases of cholera and nineteen deaths are reported for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 o'clock (Monday) morning. The cases are spreading somewhat in the city and suburbs, but the health authorities are still confident that they will be able to speedily gain control of the situation. Gov.-Gen. Smith summoned a special meeting of the members of the Philippine Commission to discuss the plague situation and to lay plans for an extension of the campaign now being waged against the disease.

TWO FIRES IN PARIS; LOSS SIX MILLIONS.

Department Store, Central Telephone Station and Postoffice Totally Destroyed and Business Will Be Seriously Crippled.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) PARIS, Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two of the greatest conflagrations in recent years occurred today, one in the morning at the department store known as the Magasin de la Ville de Saint Denis; the other in the evening at the Central Telephone station. In each case the destruction was complete.

All that the firemen could do was to prevent the flames from spreading to neighboring buildings. The loss was $6,000,000.

The fire at the telephone station occurred at 7 o'clock. For weeks, 1,500 workers have been employed installing the new central multiple battery, which was expected to do much to relieve the congestion of the Paris telephone service. In view of the urgency of the work

PET BEAR CAUSES PANIC IN PORTLAND.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) PORTLAND, Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Escaping from its cage on the Italian cruiser Puglia, now in port, a pet bear last night frightened hundreds of people, injured one and necessitated the calling out of a squad of police to effect its capture. Freeing itself from its cage at night, the animal jumped overboard, swam ashore and leisurely strolled through a prominent residence district. People took to their heels and finally the bear sat down on a street car track and did not budge when a car approached. Motorman Hicks, recovering from his surprise, improvised a lasso, and with the assistance of passengers, attempted to catch the animal. Hicks climbed a telephone pole and the motorman followed, vainly swinging his lasso. After receiving serious bites and scratches on the arm, Hicks retreated, and the animal was not captured until surrounded by police.

NIGHT JAM OF PUPILS STORMS POLYTECHNIC.

Hours Before Daylight the Children Form in Line for Chance to Register—Sit on Boxes and Strive to Keep Awake.

ROOM is at a premium in the Polytechnic High School and it was asserted by Principal Francis that night that many of those who desire to enter will be unable to find places after the rush this morning to register. In fact, there is only accommodation for 225 new pupils and consequently scores will be unable to gain admittance.

The registration of new scholars begins at 8 o'clock, but few children who show up at that hour will have any chance to attend the Polytechnic this term. The hour at which they can do so is at the "waiting list" and take a chance of a vacancy later.

But there are many who are taking no chances and before midnight last night there were over 100 boys and girls lined up in the big corridors of the school, holding their places in line so as to be sure to get their names registered in time. By 2 o'clock this morning word came that a great many more had lined up. Those in charge assert that long before daylight the entire number of new pupils for which there is room will be in waiting.

The first boy in line is E. Stuart Boyle, Jr., of No. 141 East Thirty-third street. He is a son of the late E. Stuart Boyle, who was killed in the war. He is a very bright boy and is a member of the school. He is a very bright boy and is a member of the school.

Benches have been placed along the wall of the branch corridor and around into the main corridor, but many brought their own seats—some camp stools, some old fruit or soap boxes. Some of the girls had shawls or rugs, some had "savage" blankets and with their bright dresses and colored ribbons it was a gay sight. Others, however, shivered in the early morning hours.

But shortly after midnight it was hard for the youngsters to keep awake and all along the corridor where a young people camped were groups of those who believe they have an individual responsibility for much of the petty thievery and burglary that has lately been known in the city. At his home, at the time of the school, he found a house full of stolen goods, comprising jewelry, firearms, clothing and even Indian curios.

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 18.—Among the Mexicans, a number of tales have been told for many years concerning buried treasure in old ranch-houses and stations of Southern Arizona. Around an old adobe station at Pantano, east of Tucson, the ground has been dug up for an acre or more, by men who sought gold assumed to have been concealed in the walls of the station, a tale which came to the notorious Bender family.

By means of a "witch stick," Dionicio Romero, a Tucson brickmaker, his father-in-law, Jesus Burel, and Francisco Navarro, yesterday thought they had located buried treasure under the wall of an old adobe house at the abandoned Sals ranch, near this city. It is told that the "witch stick" led them to the treasure. The stick was used to find the treasure. The stick was used to find the treasure.

BURIED BY BALLOTS.
Though the new city charter, proposed by the City Council, was rejected at a meeting of the citizens, the Council insisted on putting the matter to a vote, with the result that it was carried by a ballot of 225 votes to 19. A Citizens' Committee, headed by Mayor Schumacher, has determined upon putting an expert at work upon the wall of the house, in order to determine, if possible, whether further excavations may not be had. The Mayor and the City Council have expressed a cheerful desire to cooperate.

SICK MAN RIDES.
CANTERED INTO BARRED WIRE. GLOBE (Ariz.) Sept. 18.—A short time ago John S. Ryan, a workman in the Nella M. shaft, was hurt by being struck on the back by a falling boulder. He was brought here and, his condition being considered serious, his father, M. G. Ryan of New York, was advised of the situation by wire. The father promptly took train for the Southwest. Young Ryan's injuries proved slighter than had been believed and the patient managed to evade his nurses last night, leaving his sick bed for a horseback ride. But he will be in bed all right when his parent arrives, for he cantered into a barbed-wire fence, into which he was thrown, sustaining bruises and cuts.

WAR DANCE.
A band of Apache Indians from the San Carlos agency gave a typical war dance Sunday night, winding up with a devil dance, in which the squaws joined. Long after the white spectators had departed, the weird ceremony continued. It is believed that this is the last dance that will ever be performed by the Indians beyond the limits of their reservation, as they are averse to publicity for their religious rites.

RYUS HERO OF FURIOUS RACE.

Greatest Mt. Baldy Contest Won in Record Time.

Three-Time Winner Triumphs by Half-Hour.

Latham Struggles Desperately Against Misfortune.

Driving a race that was perfection in head work and daring, breaking the record by three-quarters of an hour over a hundred-mile course that has no equal in this country for danger and possibility of disaster, for the third time Capt. Harmon D. Ryus in a White yesterday morning won the Los Angeles-Little Baldy contest. Twice before he has finished, with his competitor trying to wreck or the fortune of the road. The third and greatest race he won by thirty-eight minutes from a competitor who was fighting all the way.

White Steamer, With Capt. Ryus, Winning Los Angeles-North Baldy Road Race Yesterday Morning.

Ryus made the run in 34.54 m. It is doubtful if he could have handled his car better. He took every advantage possible, sped like the wind where the roads would permit, and nursed his machine over the rough places.

During the whole remarkable run Ryus had practically no trouble. As he rounded the top of the Baldy grade a rear tire burst. He did not even pause to examine the casing, but finished on his rim. He drove to a three-hour and fifteen-minute schedule, and at many places made his time to the minute.

Bert Latham, who drove the Kisselkar, the gasoline entry, had carburetor trouble at Burbank which delayed 1.5 minutes, and at the top of the Baldy grade, which delayed him from fifteen to thirty minutes more. He was beaten thirty-eight and three-quarters minutes by the White steamer. The run of the gasoline car was remarkable considering the trouble along the way.

Latham reached the summit in 1.13.4 m. after leaving the starting point. When a powerful black motor car rounded the last curve at the top of the grade leading to the Fenner mine yesterday morning, the watchers on the mountain knew the Baldy race was won. As the White steamer with Ryus bending over the wheel and his mechanic, Forbes, crouched low on the footboard, rolled toward the finish the crowd gave a mighty cheer.

Most thrilling was the finish of the great race. Ryus seemed glued to the seat of his car, and his helper also a part of the mechanism. Almost hidden behind the hood, and with his peaked cap showing just above the wheel, Ryus and the White glided toward the chain stretched across the road where the timers stood watch in hand. The almost silent car seemed sinister.

It had been bitterly cold on the mountain. Unused to the high altitude of 6000 feet, many who were enthusiastic enough to travel so far to see the racers remained all night trying to keep warm. The clear, cold morning rendered objects visible for a great distance and intensified sounds.

There was a buzz as if many swarms of bees were gliding up the mountain-side and then without warning Ryus and his car shot around the curve. In an instant the hill top was a scene of the greatest activity. They had not expected Ryus quite so soon. Officials took their places and the reception for the speedy racer was fitting.

Those who had waited while the news of the race Ryus was making was telephoned to them on the mountain now gave vent to their enthusiasm. For hours the returns had been meager. The White steamer had been past this point or that. It was doubtful if they would see the car, and when they did each was anxious to honor the man who had driven such a heady race.

Thrilling came the wire, specially rigged for the occasion, came the story of the greatest Baldy race ever run.

Heard, or of those who took the message over the telephone. At Palmdale E. C. Fenner, owner of the White steamer, directed the race campaign. At Shoemaker's camp Leon F. Sheddler, owner of the Kisselkar, mapped out his campaign and gave orders.

NEWS BY WIRE. "The White started first" was the initial message at the Shoemaker camp. This was as Sheddler would have it, but he must wait an anxious thirty minutes for his car to get under way.

"The Kisselkar is off" came at exactly 8 o'clock, and then watches were compared so that accurate time could be taken at the finish.

The White steamer has reached Newhall going like the wind" came trilling over the wires. "No news of the Kisselkar" came next from Palmdale, where a trusty henchman was getting anxious. Then Sheddler became a trifle nervous. The next news came from Fenner at Palmdale.

"The Kisselkar is at Burbank, delayed twenty-nine minutes." The hopes of the gasoline rosters died as they realized the desperate chances Latham must take to overcome such a handicap.

Flashes from Acton told of the White's progress, but the most wonderful message came from Palmdale. The White had made the twelve miles from Acton to Palmdale in fifteen minutes. This seemed almost impossible until it was confirmed by timers at the two points. Then there was an interval and the thread of the Kisselkar's story was resumed.

The trouble at San Fernando had caused another costly delay, and some declared Latham was out of the race. A long wire finishing call and ploughed its way through the outer casing and through the inner tube. The tire was ripped off and another took its place.

Then came word from the Kisselkar at Acton. Would Latham be able to equal the wonderful drive of Ryus? Almost on the heels of the message from Acton came word from Palmdale. Latham had sent "Tobasco 1" the twelve miles to Palmdale in exactly fifteen minutes.

road was clear and the Kisselkar seemed scarcely to touch the earth. Twelve minutes after starting from Palmdale, the Kisselkar was in Little Rock, having made up thirty minutes of previous time since the first delay.

Within ten minutes of being on equal terms with the White, Latham shot away for Shoemaker's camp. But the carburetor had no air valve. It could not be expected to stand such a strain. Another delay resulted in Latham's defeat.

A PERFECT RACE. Had he been driving against any other man than Ryus, Latham might have won simply because of his dogged determination. Ryus, however, had driven a perfect race. He was not to be defeated.

Before he reached Shoemaker's camp the whistle of Ryus's car could be heard far down the cañon. The campers were ready to cheer him on. He came with a burst of speed that would have done credit to him on a Savannah course. The White came into view, lagged only a minute and was lost in a cloud of dust on the road. Ryus was away for the ten-mile climb to the finish.

How Ryus took that grade only those who watched him handle his car can say. All the way up on the low, but making remarkable time, the steamer climbed toward the clouds. Ryus did not know how close Latham might be. He drove the race to the finish as if the gasoline car was at his heels, and because of this, eternal vigilance he won.

That the Baldy race of yesterday was the best ever run all those who witnessed the contest are agreed. No one could see the entire race. The road is too tortuous to allow of any one seeing more than fifteen miles of it at a time. Among those who saw it yesterday all are agreed that Ryus drove one of the best races it was possible to drive.

With his mechanic, Forbes, Ryus had made only two trips to the mine at racing speed before the contest. He had been willing to hear others tell how the gasoline car would defeat him. He had kept his counsel to himself to be triumphant on the day of the race.

There was not a moment of the race yesterday when Ryus lost his nerve. He was cool at the start, cool as he shot up the Newhall grade and calm as he tackled the sandy stretch through the Soledad. There was never a time from the moment he started that he did not have a better chance than Latham to win.

PRIDE FOR RYUS. Fenner is unflinching in his praise of Ryus. The mine owner and manager of the White garage drove over the desert from Palmdale after the race to greet and congratulate Ryus. Fenner declared that he had never had a doubt concerning the outcome of the race. He showed his confidence during the race.

At the finish Ryus received the unstinted praise lavished upon him with modesty. He tried to devote himself to others. I want to devote myself to other things than risking my neck on perilous grades."

even an hour before the start a handful of motor enthusiasts at the corner of Fourth and Broadway, and a few minutes before the coin was tossed for choice of position, either curb had a fringe of automobiles, and there was a crowd awaiting the start.

Like a meteor Ryus sped down the dusty road into Palmdale at 7.41 o'clock. Latham at that time was tearing over the good stretch of road near Saugus, and making as good time as Ryus.

Teams in the road delayed the White steamer and Ryus lost several minutes. This helped the man who was coming so fast behind. In the Soledad cañon Latham began to make time, but the same teams that had bothered Ryus now hampered the Kisselkar crew.

Through the long stretch of sandy road, into creek bottoms, where boulders threatened the car, the Kisselkar pursued the steamer, all to no avail. His double frame, extra springs and carefully equipped car had been put to naught by the infinitesimal valve of the carburetor.

A LITTLE FLAW. Sheddler had planned carefully and well. His race campaign was a marvel. He had apparently insured himself against everything. It was to be a little air valve that would set at naught all his plans.

Back of all Sheddler's plans to win was something far greater which militated against the Kisselkar. The Kisselkar had almost lived with the machine for a month. He knew its every part. He had driven it several times to the summit of Baldy in record time. He wanted to win the race.

They tried to encourage Latham as they drove. The crew of the Kisselkar, they were tired, and almost exhausted from the labor of changing tires, spinning the motor and from trying to do an hour's work in ten minutes. But they did more than all that, they risked their lives to win.

There are many things a man will do to earn glory, there are many things he will do to earn fame, but of these things neither Latham nor King thought. They wanted to be the White steamer, they wanted to reach the summit of Baldy in faster time than Ryus could.

Out of the Soledad cañon Latham flew to Acton, but Ryus was almost at Shoemaker's camp and not more than twelve miles from the finish.

WONDERFUL SPEED. Into and out of Acton went Latham at wonderful speed but Ryus was at Shoemaker's with ten miles of mountain grade before him. Thirty-two miles behind the Kisselkar sped on. Then came the wonderful run to Palmdale. The puncture followed.

cars could be watched for a distance of fifteen miles.

Ryus reached Acton at 7.25. At that time Latham was at San Fernando, many miles in his rear, with a punctured tire. It seemed as if the race was practically over, a repetition of the other contests. Latham took away through Newhall, where he received an ovation, and out over the road to Saugus.

Knowing he was almost hopelessly defeated, the Kisselkar driver took desperate chances now. In the saugus cut he could guess his distance from the flying White. To King, the mechanic, there appeared to be a chance. The two men and the car got into action.

While Latham and King were working feverishly to replace the tire Ryus was on the grade doing the last leg of the race and apparently a sure winner. When Ryus was half way up the grade Latham was spinning over the road to Little Rock. When Ryus was in sight of the finish Latham was out.

There was nothing during the entire race that proved Ryus a fair haired man more than his solicitude for Latham. He was anxious to win, as anxious as Latham, but he did not forget to express a word of praise for the man he was driving against.

SEEKS BATH. GETS ROAST.

NEAR-TRAGEDY DUE TO MATCH SCRATCHED BY ACTOR.

"Instantaneous" Device Slow in Heating Water, but Fast in Perforating Tenants of Apartment House, Who Are Roused Out, Then Appear Alone Sleeping on.

The next time actor Harry Wardell wishes to take a bath he will probably hitch on behind a sprinkling cart or dive off a dock. No more bath-tubs for Wardell since his experience of Saturday night—rather, early yesterday morning, when he sat for four hours waiting upon his eternal "instantaneous" heater, drove the whole population of an apartment house into the street wearing little but unpleasant looks, and exhausted the Hill-street engine company's horses in dragging their works up a terrible hill.

Wardell lives at the Breston apartments, First and Olive streets. After the play Saturday night he had a light supper with a few friends, returned to the place at its farthest extent and sat down to wait. He waited for half an hour, but by that time he had become provoked at the miserable affair, and, getting a chair and a book, determined to stick it out. But the bath-room became warm, though the water did not, and presently Wardell went to sleep.

Some time between 3 and 4 o'clock a woman who lives below got up to get her little girl a drink, and, going through the dark with accustomed discretion, placed her hand upon the faucet. A second later her astonished scream awoke the occupants of the whole floor. The faucet was as hot as a locomotive boiler under a full head of steam!

Soon there began to be sundry manifestations of restlessness through the whole building. Men awoke and wondered if it was "earthquake weather," which made the night so unwontedly warm. An old maid in a corner apartment was aroused by the moving of her cat, which had been driven out of the corner by the superheated pipes. On the lower floor there was a strong smell of smoking varnish.

It was not long, of course, before there were lights flashing to and fro, and then it was discovered that the water-works of the whole institution—below Wardell's floor—had long since become the boiling point.

Next came the alarm of fire, with its incidental and usual discoveries of things which never existed, and when the firemen arrived, just before dawn, they found the street filled with hysterical women and men in various

STAGES OF DISHABILLITY STILL TRYING TO FATHOM THE TERRIBLE MYSTERY.

They went from room to room, and the only apartment to which they could not gain entrance was Wardell's. They smashed the door in, and found him tilted comfortably back in his chair, snoring madly, and dripping perspiration in that equatorial atmosphere, as if he were in a Turkish bath.

Actors of the Gayety Company, at the Grand Opera-house, where Wardell has an engagement, presented their fellow with a dinky little bathing suit yesterday afternoon, amid general hilarity from those who were "on."

A convention of plumbers may be called to hold an autopsy on that heater.

REJOICE. SWISS GATHER TO CELEBRATE.

NATIVES OF REPUBLIC OBSERVE OLD ANNIVERSARY.

Barbecue, Sports and Literary Exercises Enjoyed by Representatives from All Parts of Southern California—One Is the Alpine Fourth of July All Over World.

In celebration of the six hundred and seventeenth anniversary of Swiss independence there was a gathering at the Caserini ranch, near Ivy Station, yesterday, from all parts of Southern California of over 1500 natives of the Alpine republic and their descendants. Patriotic addresses were made and all the sports of such an occasion were enjoyed.

A barbecue and basket picnic furnished the refreshments, and there were music, dancing and athletic sports. The literary exercises included an address by L. La Frank, who reviewed the principal historical events of Switzerland in its struggle for liberty and its preservation; Prof. R. T. Sierra, who told of the little republic's progress and high standing and of the work of the Swiss in their new home in America; and by Joseph R. Tomasini, assistant editor of the San Francisco Chronicle.

In his address Mr. Tomasini called attention to the republican principles of Switzerland and the United States and what a high place the immigrants on the little republic have won L. R. Continui; he said:

"It cannot be otherwise. When we stop to think that the republic of Switzerland is not quite as large as Los Angeles county, yet still holds within its boundaries 3,500,000 inhabitants, in comparatively prosperous circumstances—and I may add that its people are above the average given by all the nations of Europe for education and well living—we must admit that Switzerland and its people possess moral resources that amply compensate for the deficiency of natural resources. And these resources, these sterling qualities, you have brought here with you."

Following the address there was a were given for the two republics and the national songs of both countries were sung. The Swiss in California, for the most part, are those who speak the Italian and French tongue. There are 35,000 of them in the State.

All over the world yesterday the Swiss colonies held celebrations in honor of the day, while in Switzerland it was generally observed with as much rejoicing as Fourth of July is in this country.

CLOSE CALL FOR EYE.

Little Daughter of Mayor Harper Narrowly Misses Partial Loss of Sight in Accident.

Little Marjorie Harper, 8 years old, the daughter of Mayor A. C. Harper, had a narrow escape from losing the sight of one of her eyes in an accident at San Pedro last Thursday. The Mayor has given up attendance at all functions during the last day or two to spend as much time with his little girl as possible, and to care for Mrs. Harper, who is said to be nearly prostrated.

It was while playing with her brother, Franklin, the second son of the Mayor, that the accident happened. Franklin started to knock a block of wood with a stick when it slipped from his hand and the point struck Marjorie just under the eyelid, at the side of the nose, making a wound severe only because of its proximity to the eye. The sharp point of the stick, however, missed the eyeball and penetrated the nose.

Marjorie, who is the baby and pet of the family, is under the care of Dr. Perry, who asserts that within a few years there will not be even a noticeable scar left to mark the painful wound.

Sale of Men's Sample Suits $15.00 Values up to $25.

A suit sale out of the ordinary. Such values have never been offered in Los Angeles. It was a lucky buy for us and a rare opportunity for our customers.

The Western representative of one of the most prominent wholesale tailors in America, having finished his last trip for fall business in Los Angeles, offered to sell us his line of sample suits rather than bother taking them back to headquarters.

The lot includes only a limited number of suits—the very cream of the firm's output—the choicest patterns and finest workmanship. You can depend upon any firm making sample suits good.

The figure quoted us was low, we bought them quickly, and we put the price low for a quick sale, glad to give our customers a big bargain and further strengthen the reputation of Lowman & Co. as givers of biggest values in men's clothes. Every man who has the good fortune to secure one of these suits will be a life-long customer of Lowman's clothing department.

In this lot, you'll find the new herringbone stripes in rich brown shade, new wide stripes in browns, olives and greens, handsome blue effects, etc. Made in different styles, some with the fancy new pockets and cuffs. You couldn't buy the cheapest one for less than $20 regularly—the majority are regular $22.50 and $25 values. Sale begins this morning, and as long as the lot lasts, they'll go at only $15 a suit.

COULTER DRY GOODS COMPANY

SEEKS BATH, GETS ROAST.

NEAR-TRAGEDY DUE TO MATCH SCRATCHED BY ACTOR.

"Instantaneous" Device Slow in Heating Water, but Fast in Parboiling Tenants of Apartment House, Who Are Roused Out, Then-Plan Alone Sleeping on.

The next time actor Harry Wardell wishes to take a bath he will probably ditch on behind a sprinkling cart or dive off a dock. No more bath-tubs for Wardell since his experience of Saturday night—or rather, early yesterday morning, when he sat for four hours waiting upon his eternal "instantaneous" heater, drove the whole population of an apartment house into the street wearing little but unpleasant looks, and caused the Hill-street engine company's horses in dragging their works up a terrific hill.

Wardell lives at the famous apartment house, 1111 Olive street. After the play Saturday night he had a light supper with a few friends, returned to his apartment and read for an hour, and then, shortly after midnight, prepared for a bath before retiring.

He lighted his heating apparatus, expected to find the water ready for him when he was ready for it. But hot water came not, and he screwed up the hose to its farthest extent and waited to wait. He waited for half an hour, but by that time he had become provoked at the miserable affair, and, getting a chair and a book, determined to stick it out. But the bath-room became warm, though the water did not, and presently Wardell went to sleep.

Some time between 3 and 4 o'clock a woman who lives below got up to get her little girl a drink, and, going through the dark with accustomed dispatch, placed her hand upon the faucet. A second later she astonished scream awoke the occupants of the whole floor. The faucet was as hot as a locomotive boiler under a full head of steam!

SWISS GATHER TO CELEBRATE.

NATIVES OF REPUBLIC OBSERVE OLD ANNIVERSARY.

Barbecue, Sports and Literary Exercises Enjoyed by Representatives from All Parts of Southern California—Day Is the Alpine Fourth of July All Over World.

In celebration of the six hundred and seventeenth anniversary of Swiss independence there was a gathering at the Casemini ranch, near Ivy Station, yesterday, from all parts of Southern California of over 1000 natives of the Alpine republic and their descendants. Patriotic addresses were made and all the sports of such an occasion were enjoyed.

A barbecue and basket picnic furnished the refreshments, and there were music, dancing and athletic sports. The literary exercises included an address by I. La Franki, who reviewed the principal historical events of Switzerland in its struggle for liberty and its preservation; Prof. R. T. Herr, who told of the little republic's history and high standing and the work of the Swiss in their new home in America; and by Joseph R. Tomasini, assistant editor of the San Francisco La Colonia Swiss, who was the orator of the day. In his address Mr. Tomasini called attention to the republican principles of Switzerland and the United States and what a high place the immigrants on the little republic have won here. Continuing he said:

"It cannot be otherwise. When we stop to think that the republic of Switzerland is not quite as large as Los Angeles county, yet still holds within its boundaries 1,500,000 inhabitants, in comparatively prosperous circumstances—and I may add that its people are above the average given by all the nations of Europe for education and well living—we must admit that Switzerland and its people possess moral resources that amply compensate for the deficiency of natural resources. And these resources, these sterling qualities, you have brought here with you."

Following the address there were various stages of dishabille still trying to fathom the torrid mystery. They went from room to room, and the only apartment to which they could not gain entrance was Wardell's. They smashed the door in, and found him tilted comfortably back in his chair, snoring melodiously, and dripping perspiration in that equatorial atmosphere, as if he were in a Turkish bath.

A convention of plumbers may be called to hold an autopsy on that heater.

CLOSE CALL FOR EYE.

Little Daughter of Mayor Harper Narrowly Misses Partial Loss of Sight in Accident.

Little Marjorie Harper, 8 years old, the daughter of Mayor A. C. Harper, had a narrow escape from losing the sight of one of her eyes in an accident at San Pedro last Thursday. The Mayor has given up attendance at all functions during the last day or two to spend as much time with his little girl as possible, and to care for Mrs. Harper, who is said to be nearly prostrated.

It was while playing with her brother, Franklin, the second son of the Mayor, that the accident happened. Franklin started to knock a block of wood with a stick when it slipped from his hand and the point struck Marjorie just under the eyelid, at the side of the nose, making a wound severe only because of its proximity to the eye. The sharp point of the stick, however, missed the eyeball and penetrated the nose.

Marjorie, who is the baby and pet of the family, is under the care of Dr. Perry, who asserts that within a few days there will not be even a noticeable scar left to mark the painful wound.

California COAL

A mountain of it at our door. Only 35 miles from Los Angeles. Good railroad facilities. The Orange County Coal Mining Company owns 100 acres of coal bearing land and have option on adjoining property. This is not a prospect, but a proven mine: 3200 feet of tunneling done; 500,000 tons of semi-anthracite coal in sight, which can be mined for 32 per cent. You know what we can sell it for. A limited amount of stock can be had in this company at 50c per share.

Sale of Men's Sample Suits $15.00 Values up to $25.

A suit sale out of the ordinary. Such values have never been offered in Los Angeles. It was a lucky buy for us and a rare opportunity for our customers.

The Western representative of one of the most prominent wholesale tailors in America, having finished his last trip for fall business in Los Angeles, offered to sell us his line of sample suits rather than bother taking them back to headquarters.

The lot includes only a limited number of suits—the very cream of the firm's output—the choicest patterns and finest workmanship. You can depend upon any firm making sample suits good.

The figure quoted us was low, we bought them quickly, and we put the price low for a quick sale, glad to give our customers a big bargain and further strengthen the reputation of Lowman & Co. as givers of biggest values in men's clothes. Every man who has the good fortune to secure one of these suits will be a life-long customer of Lowman's clothing department.

In this lot, you'll find the new herringbone stripes in rich brown shade, new wide stripes in browns, olives and greens, handsome blue effects, etc. Made in different styles, some with the fancy new pockets and cuffs. You couldn't buy the cheapest one for less than $20 regularly—the majority are regular $22.50 and $25 values. Sale begins this morning, and as long as the lot lasts, they'll go at only $15 a suit.

SAINGERFEST OPENS.
Massed Chorus of German National Songs of Germany Before Crowds in Chutes Park.
Admirers of the national music of Germany thoroughly enjoyed the saingerfest, at Chutes Park, yesterday afternoon and evening, given by a chorus of sixty voices. In the afternoon, upwards of 11,000 people attended, and the evening gathering was equally large. It was a real letter box for the fidelity of Los Angeles, and the Maennerchor of Pasadena. There were also many visiting singers from near-by cities. The singing was under the direction of Prof. Julius Albert John, and the work of the mass choruses was voted excellent. Mayor Hargrave was on the program for a speech, but he was unavoidably absent, and his place was taken by Anthony Schramm, president of the day. Dr. Joseph Kurtz delivered a scholarly address in German.

BREAKS HIS PAROLE.
Released Prisoner Falls in Love and Now Must Serve Balance of Term in Prison.
Steve Harbin, a paroled prisoner from San Quentin, was taken North yesterday to serve the remaining two years of his sentence for breaking his parole. Harbin was sent to San Quentin from this city several years ago for revamping Confederate money until it looked like "green backs" and passing them. Prior to this he had served two short terms in the City Jail for petty larceny.

The feeling is prevalent on the California campus that the Blue and Gold will not have the walkover in the second round. The Blue and Gold team and that the match on October 17 will be one of the hardest contested games ever played between teams of the two universities. While California has a strong and likely bunch of freshmen, the Cardinal has a considerable number of experienced players. The team for two seasons on Southern California or Santa Clara Valley teams and owing to this fact, appears to be just the annual cost of "running" a battleship of the Dreadnought class is $500,000 a year, of which $200,000 goes to the officers for salaries and wages. Ammunition in time of peace costs $200,000 a year, the cost of necessary target practice being very heavy. Victrolar, fuel, etc., make up the balance. Estimating the original cost of these vessels at $1,000,000, the average life of twenty years, the cost from the first draft plans to the sale of this vessel as junk reaches a total of $17,500,000.
